

Berlin, 3 January 1946

My dear Sir,

I have the pleasure to inform you that your letter of the 27th has been received and that the necessary arrangements are being made to ensure that you will receive the books you ordered as soon as possible.

I am sorry that I cannot give you a more definite date, but the books are being printed and the printing is well advanced. I will be in a position to give you a more definite date when I have received the books from the printer.

I am sure that you will be satisfied with the result. I will be in a position to give you a more definite date when I have received the books from the printer. I am sure that you will be satisfied with the result.
