

Handwritten text at the top of the page, including the word "Ayawak" and other illegible characters.

Kai is the first line of the main body of text. It is followed by several lines of dense, handwritten script in a cursive style.

The bottom section of the page contains another block of handwritten text, continuing the script from the middle section.

Handwritten text at the top of the page, including the number '42-43' and some illegible characters.

Main body of handwritten text, appearing as bleed-through from the reverse side of the paper. The text is dense and largely illegible due to the angle and fading.